REPUBLICANS

Of Jackson County Are United and Militant, Says Chairman Rariden.

Although Jackson was the strongest Lilly county in the state, Republicans there are united behind Judge Ira E. Robinson for the governorship, according to P. H. Rariden, of Ripley, chairman of the Republican executive committee of the county, who was a visitor in the city Saturday night. Mr. Rariden is one of the most prominent residents of the county, being editor of the Jackson Herald and also county superintendent of schools.

Mr. Rariden called at Republican state headquarters Saturday night and told Secretary Charles G. Coffman that Jackson would be in the Republican column again this year with a majority of at least 600 for both state and national tickets.

"There is no dissatisfaction at all among Republicans of the county," Mr. Rariden said. Conditions never were in better shape. The party is united and all Republicans are working hard for the ticket."

HEN CAN'T BE CHARGED WITH BEING HYPHENATED

TEMPLE, Pa., Oct. 14.—Hens in Berks county hold fine records for laying many eggs and hatching freak chickens, but now comes the most peculiar of all freak laying. A Plymouth Rock hen belonging to John Kramer, of this place, laid an egg to which is attached a silk American flag, 2 1/2 inches in size.

The hen set up a loud cackle and when Mrs. Kramer went to the nest from a soft spot at one end of the egg protruded the flag, the shell being hard over all the rest of the parts.

It is thought that the hen swallowed the flag while the egg was forming. A watch is being kept to see what the hen lays next.

Methods of Marketing Live Stock and Meats

Federal Department Makes a Very Exhaustive Study of the Situation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Market variation in methods of marketing meat animals in different sections of the United States and in methods of marketing different classes of animals in the country as a whole has been found by specialists of the United States department of agriculture from a survey of the live stock marketing conditions of the country. The data obtained by the survey have been published as part five of a report of an exhaustive study of the meat situation in the United States.

Three General Methods.

The three general methods of marketing found to be in most common use are:

Shipping to the large centralized markets, selling to local butchers and packers, and the sale of farm-prepared meats to dealers or consumers.

The bulk of the animals from the central states, it was found, is sold through the centralized markets, while some form of local marketing predominates in the extreme eastern, western, and southern sections.

The great central markets handle four-fifths of the sheep and lambs, two-thirds of the hogs, and approximately one-half of the beef cattle. For local slaughter about one-third of the beef cattle, one-eighth of the sheep and lambs, and one-twelfth of the hogs are sold. Nearly one-third of the hogs and about one-tenth of the beef cattle and one-twentieth of the sheep and lambs are slaughtered on farms and ranges. Relatively more sheep are shipped in carload lots by owners than any other class of live stock. Cattle, hogs, and calves follow in the order named. In sales to local buyers hogs lead, with calves, cattle, and sheep following in order.

Only Few Months.

The study discloses that the time of buying stockers and feeders and the selling of finished animals is restricted too generally to a few months of the year. Should stock-feeding operations be better adjusted to market conditions, a decided influence toward a more even distribution of the supply would be the result.

Co-operative associations of cattle raisers are becoming an important factor in marketing, the report shows. Seven hundred and fifty organizations which market cattle in a co-operative way now exist in fifteen states. Four hundred and thirty of these organizations are primarily live stock shipping associations. The greatest activity of this sort was found in Minnesota, where 215 co-operative live stock shipping associations are located. The department specialists declare that these associations bring greater returns to the farmers because of the reduction of marketing expenses and the realization of the prevailing prices at the centralized markets, and that they are also valuable because of their educational features.

The system of centralized live stock markets in the United States is the largest single factor in the marketing of meat animals. It is noteworthy that this system is peculiar to the United States, no other country having developed such markets for their live stock. Not only is live stock sold for slaughter at the centralized markets, but a large proportion of stocker and feeder cattle also passes through these market centers.

The chief outlet for food producing animals in this country, the study dis-

SCORING RECORD.

For Football is Broken by the Ohio State University in a Game with Oberlin.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14.—Breaking four previous records and setting what is claimed as a world's inter-collegiate record for football scores Ohio State University won from Oberlin here this afternoon 123 to 0. The first mark to go was that of scoring in the first half, sixty-seven points being counted the second record to be set aside was that of scoring by an Ohio state team when the 83 to 0 score against Miami in 1903 was raised in the third quarter, the third was a mark that surpassed all scores in the state and the fourth is the new record against Oberlin, which has always proved a hard team for state to whip.

TILE MAKING

Schools Are to Be Operated among Mohammedans in Philippine Islands.

MANILA, Oct. 14.—The latest step in the advancement of the Moro is a plan to introduce among these Mohammedans, the art of tile manufacture. A number of Japanese tile makers are to be imported into the Moro country, to settle near schools and settlements for at least six months. They will open tile making schools and it is expected that the Moros will soon be able to manufacture roofing tiles as cheaply as the work is done in Java.

The Moros, like other Philippine tribes, use straw and thatch as a roofing material. It is not costly but it is highly inflammable and is an invitation to destructive fires. Tiles will eliminate the fire danger and not increase the cost of construction.

MISSOURI JUDGE RULES THERE ARE NO GHOSTS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 14.—Spooks: Are there or are there not? That is the question.

Attorneys for E. C. Britt based a $15,000 slander of the title suit on the fact that W. H. Eardley had testified that in a big house in West Fifty-eighth street terrace spooks walked in the halls with hollow footsteps in the "wee" hours.

Attorneys for Eardley argued that there were no such things as ghosts, and therefore the mere fact a man said that something which did not exist "haunted" the house was not a basis for a suit.

Judge Lucas admitted he never had met a ghost face to face and declared the law did not have a speaking acquaintance with ghosts. He sustained the demurrer, giving Britt's attorneys ten days in which to file an amended petition in an attempt to prove slander by some other method than the ghosts.
